IV Swell to Great V Solo to Great

The organ was built in 1997, and placed behind the altar in the chancel of the old church. Six years later the church was demolished, and a new church built on the same site. The organ stands in a transept, which was designed to accommodate it without alteration. The Great and Swell Organs are at the main level, the Solo at the upper level towards the apex, and the Pedal on either side. The detached console is placed with the choir seats in front of the organ. The casework is of mahogany, and the front pipes are of spotted metal.

The organ is planned for the accompaniment of the Anglican liturgy, and as a versatile instrument for solo performance, with a bias towards the romantic repertoire: hence the expressive Solo Organ on the third manual, with its strings, reeds and commanding Tuba (on 12" wind pressure), alongside wide-scaled flutes.

The church and organ were dedicated in December 2005.
